Fit Facts™

FROM THE AMERICAN COUNCIL ON EXERCISE®

Teens, Fitness and You

With all the pressures today's teenagers have to deal with, it's no wonder so many are in trouble.

Statistics show that teen suicide and teen pregnancy are on the rise, as is the firearm-homicide rate for teens. Smoking among teens is in vogue, and two-thirds of eighth-graders report that they have tried alcohol. And only about 38 percent of them get enough exercise - which means the other 62 percent are setting themselves up for a sedentary life and all the problems that come with it.

Now's the time to change these statistics. Research has shown that kids who play sports, or who are physically active, are less likely to have these problems. But getting kids to exercise is no easy task unless you're willing to spend time with them and learn to speak their language.

Quality time, quality talk

It's impossible to have good relationships with teenagers if you don't spend time with them. Don't expect teens to automatically think you're cool and trustworthy - you'll have to prove it.

Accept them for who they are and show them that you are genuinely concerned about them. Look past the way they dress or wear their hair, and learn to understand their language so you can relate to what they have to say.

A person who is a good listener has a good chance of developing relationships with teens, since most of them would rather talk than listen. Whatever it takes, learn to listen to teenagers, and offer your words of wisdom only when necessary. It's the only way to figure them out.

They're listening - What do you say?

The number-one thing you can do to help teens get active is to be a good role model. Live the life that you advocate; show them that being active can be fun, and they will follow your example. Let them know that being physically active does not necessarily mean going to exercise classes or playing sports, although these are two great options.

Hiking and camping, body surfing and playing Frisbee or paddleball are activities the whole family can enjoy. And, since they're having so much fun, teens will hardly realize that what they're doing is actually good for them.

Teenagers can participate in just about any fitness activity, whether it be weight training, mountain biking or martial arts. Many gyms are lowering their age requirements and offering family memberships and discounts to reach the younger market. Organized sports also are an excellent means of improving socialization and developing discipline and teamwork skills.

Competing with the negative

It's not easy to get your message of good health and fitness across when you're competing with the lure of television and video games. That's why it's so important to appeal to a teenager's sense of fun and need for social interaction.

Whenever possible, include others, such as their friends, in your fitness activities. Encouraging a teenager (or an adult, for that matter) to become more active can be discouraging, particularly when they seem to be tuning you out.

At some point, that encouragement may become counter-productive. Instead, continue to serve as a role model for an active lifestyle and perhaps they will one day follow your lead.

The most important thing you can do for today's youth is to help them value their lives. Being healthy and fit will put them in touch with their bodies, increase their self-esteem and help them to establish a desire to set personal goals.

Bottom line, however, is that in order to get anyone to exercise, teenager or not, it has to be fun. Teenagers aren't likely to do something just because they're told it's good for them. But with your support and encouragement, you can help put them on the path to better health that lasts a lifetime.

Patient Testimonials

I can honestly state that my 12 year old twins truly enjoy their visits to the dentist. Dr. Nguyen is a wonderful dentist and has the nicest staff. He is very intelligent, patient and has state of the art equipment. We have been coming to his office for over 5 years and have always received nothing but the best in service. I have and will continue to recommend Dr. Nguyen to other family members and friends.

Olga Salazar - Houston, TX USA

Dr. Nguyen is the most hitech-savvy dentist I have ever met. I have been a patient of Dr. Nguyen for 7 years. His ability and knowledge to utilize computerized equipment and hi-tech (laser etc.) equipment have amazed me. Dr. Nguyen works hard and do the best for his patients. I highly recommend Dr. Nguyen to be your dentist.

Winchester Country Neighbor's —

Some Deed Restriction's as well State Law violations have been brought to the WCMA Boards attention.

Trash Pick-up

Often residents put their trash out too soon. Trash pick-up days are Monday and Thursday; therefore, according to the deed restrictions it cannot be placed at the curb until the evening before (Sunday or Wednesday evening). Please, always make sure that your trash is secure as to reduce the chance of animal and/or weather conditions blowing your trash throughout the neighborhood. If for some reason your trash becomes unsecured, please pick it up, as otherwise it is an eyesore to the whole neighborhood.

Animals

Harris County has a leash law on all Domestic Animals that require them to be restrained with a leash. We have many animals that run loose in the neighborhood. When animals run loose they get in to trash, can be injured or killed by entering the street, preyed upon by other animals, as well as some residents do not like or are even fearful of animals. If your pet visits another yard or one of the common areas (I.E. parks and other green spaces) please be considerate and pick up after them.

Brown Lawns??

Many of the lawns in Winchester Country are turning brown. WHY? Chances are you have Root Rot, Take all patch (TAP) also known as Take all root rot (TARR). It is a fungal disease, that eats away at the root system and it does it in such a slow and degrading way that most people do not even know it is happening. The disease effects Bermuda and St. Augustine grasses, mostly in older lawns. If you can easily lift up the grass and see brown root nodules, you probably have the stuff. If you can take a closer look, you will see little black moldy stuff on the stems. To prevent it apply F Stop Fungicide or Green-light Fung-Away. Water well, and fertilize in the spring and fall and regularly mow at the highest setting your mower will allow. It is highly contagious and can be tracked to your lawn by foot traffic. To help prevent it from spreading hose down your lawn mower after each use and avoid walking across effected areas.

For more information go to www.kprcradio.com

Honey for Your Sweet Tooth

Everyone likes a sweet treat now and then, but too much sugar can be a bad thing, particularly for your teeth. However, there is a natural alternative that might actually be good for your teeth: honey.

Thinking of honey as helpful for teeth may seem strange, especially since the bacteria in dental plaque, which cause tooth decay, need sugars to survive and multiply. But, according to researchers at the University of Waikato in New Zealand, honey may stop the growth of bacteria found dental plaque and reduce the amount of acid that it produces. Since this acid is what causes cavities, honey may be able to combat tooth decay. So how does it work?

A potent antimicrobial agent:

Honey is well-known for its anti-microbial qualities. In fact, it has been used in traditional medicine as a dressing for wounds, burns, and skin ulcers. The medical community is now rediscovering the therapeutic value of honey.

Honey's anti-microbial power comes from an enzyme that produces hydrogen peroxide, a common antiseptic agent. Unlike most antiseptics that use hydrogen peroxide, however, honey is gentler on tissue and contains anti-inflammatory agents that reduce swelling and pain. It even helps cells repair themselves.

Of course, it's important to take things in moderation. While a little honey may be beneficial, too much may still cause damage to your teeth.

Types of honey:

The color and taste of honey depends on what kind of nectar the bees used to make it. The lighter honeys have better aroma and taste, but the darker honeys have a greater nutritional value. The darker the honey, the more minerals it contains, including potassium, magnesium, phosphor, and iron.

The anti-microbial capabilities of the honey also depend on what nectar it comes from. If you want to use honey for topical wounds, you can buy medicinal honey just for that purpose. You probably won't want to eat it, however. Specially made medicinal honey is not meant to be used as food.

Cooking with honey:

Honey is sweeter than sugar, so you can use less honey in a recipe than you would sugar. Ideally, you should start with a recipe that calls for honey. However, you can substitute honey for sugar; use half the amount that is called for in the recipe. For example, if the recipe calls for 1 cup of sugar, use half a cup of honey.

You may also need to make a few other adjustments when you bake with honey: (1) Reduce any liquid called for by 1/4 cup for each cup of honey used; (2) Add 1/2 teaspoon baking soda for each cup of honey used; and (3) Reduce the oven temperature by 250F to prevent over-browning.

Storing honey:

It's best to store honey at room temperature, in a pantry or out of direct sunlight on the kitchen counter. Refrigerating honey increases the crystallization process, in which honey becomes solid. If this happens, the honey is still usable. Simply place the jar in a warm water and stir until it liquefies again. Alternatively, place the honey jar in a microwave-safe dish, remove the lid, and microwave it slowly, stirring frequently, until the crystals dissolve. Be careful not to boil or scorch the honey.

Note to Parents:

Don't feed honey to your infant. Honey may contain spores of the bacterium Clostridium botulinum. While adults and children over 1 year of age are routinely exposed to this bacterium, it can cause serious illness in babies. For more information, please contact Dr. M. Nguyen at 281-807-6111 or drnguyen@softdental.com.
