LOEN Ladies Club

A special thank you to the LOEN Ladies Club and its members for supporting the first annual LOEN Market by the Lakes. It was a wonderful success! With your help, we were able to raise over $3,000 for the Houston Chronicle's Christmas charity: Goodfellows

Thanks to everyone who came out to support our vendors! We look forward to seeing you same time, same place next year!

Thank you!

Attention Praying Moms!

Moms In Touch International is a worldwide community of mothers praying for children and schools. I am interested in starting a prayer group for Kirk Elementary. We would gather once a week for one hour to pray for Kirk students, faculty and staff. To know more about this worldwide organization go to MomsInTouch.org and if you are interested in joining a group for Kirk Elementary please call Jeanne at 713 291-9676.

LOEN Ladies Club

We invite all women of Lakes on Eldridge North to join the LOEN Ladies Club. We would love to see new members join, get involved and bring together the community.

Check us out on the web! www.loenladiesclub.com

Book Club

Come join us! We meet the 1st Monday of the month in the evening.

Please contact Anne Glendinning with any questions 832-667-7298 or aglendinning@houston.rr.com

Bridge

Our sessions are formally on the second Wednesday of each month at 1:00 pm. However, due to increasing interest, we are expanding our horizons for more frequent play. This is really a great group—very enthusiastic.

If you would like to join us, or if you desire further information, please call Babs Clingo at 713-983-7345.

Evening Bridge

Our sessions are the first Friday of each month and begin at 7:00 pm. We have a very compatible group of players and invite newcomers to join us.

If you would like to join us, or if you desire further information, please call Babs Clingo at 713-983-7345.

Chickless Hens

Are you “chickless”? Is your nest empty, or “nearly” empty? Join us Chickless Hens for lunch, field trips and lots of laughs. For more information contact Becky Vogel at kvogel2263@aol.com (713-856-6130).

COMPANIES OF THE WORLD™

Lakes on Eldridge North

Trinity Vineyard Church

Who are we?

We love Jesus. We are growing through study of the bible. We find life and purpose in relationships. We exist to pursue God in the company of friends.

What's Happening This Month?

Come join us on Sunday mornings for our holiday teaching series – The Gifts of Christmas. Each week we will look at a different gift that is offered as a result of the birth of Christ. Our children will be learning all about the birth of Jesus throughout the month of December, as well.

Celebrate Christmas Eve with us as we will have a candlelight worship experience with Christmas songs, reflections on the birth of Christ, and receive the Lord's Supper. This one-hour service will start at 6 pm.

Who is invited?

Imperfect people of all ages, backgrounds, and cultures are welcome to attend.

When are our Gatherings?

We meet on Sunday mornings. The morning service begins at 10:30 am. Children's programs are provided for those 6 months – 5th grade.

Mid-week small groups are another opportunity to join us. We study the bible together, pray for each other, and do life together. Email or call for more info.

Teenagers can join us on Sunday nights at 6 pm for The Gathering.

What is our Location?

We are located on Cypress North Houston between Huffmeister and Telge. 12022 Knigge Cemetery Road Cypress, TX 77433

What is our contact information?

Visit our web page at www.TrinityVineyard.cc. Our phone # is 281-897-8463. Our email is info@TrinityVineyard.cc

Empty Nest Chance To Chase Forgotten Dreams

Baylor College of Medicine

HOUSTON – Middle age woes are hard enough to deal with, but throw in empty nest syndrome and it is a recipe for potential depression.

Psychologists at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston say not to look at it as an ending, but as the beginning of a new stage in life with more time to travel, develop new hobbies, rediscover forgotten dreams and get to know your spouse all over again.

Empty nest syndrome can happen twice in an adult's life, once when the kids start kindergarten and again when they move out of the house. The more challenging of the two is when adolescents move out of the house to begin their adult lives.

"Parents have channeled all of their energy into their children for so long they may not know what to do with their time once they leave," says Dr. James Bray, associate professor of family and community medicine at BCM. "It is actually one of the high points when looking at the divorce rate scale. The numbers really tend to go up during middle age."

When people are unhappy in their marriage they usually have internal anxiety about something else, like not knowing what to do with the rest of their lives after the kids leave.

"It is natural to reevaluate your life every so often and even more natural during this stage in a parent's life," says Bray. "Don't just assume that if you leave your spouse you will make the unhappiness go away. Marriage takes time and energy, so make the effort to get reacquainted."

It is a good idea to talk with friends to reevaluate goals and take note of some lifelong dreams you haven't had time to accomplish, says Bray.

Now that the kids have moved out, there may be more time to take dance classes, travel, exercise or go back to college to retool skills.

Kids need to remember to stand up for themselves if parents become too needy or clingy. Setting a phone schedule can eliminate the out-of-control calling by some parents, while reassuring them can eliminate needless worry.

"Kids can also consult with counselors if they really have an issue with a clingy parent or one that is having a difficult time dealing with the separation," says Bray.

The empty nest transition usually lasts six months to a year, depending on how well parents can adjust to their newly found freedom.

Holiday Sugar Plums That Dance On Your Taste Buds

These Holiday Sugar Plums are made with ruby-red Maraschino cherries.

(NAPSA)-The more the merrier when it comes to holiday treats. And holiday sugar plums are no exception. These traditional treats are made with festive and fun Maraschino cherries.

Whether you are hosting a party or giving gifts to neighbors, these sugar plums are full of holiday cheer. And because they are so simple, the kids will have a ball helping you make them.

Holiday Sugar Plums

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 ½ tsp vanilla
- 2 ¼ cup quick rolled oats (optional)
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ½ cup finely chopped pecans
- 48 Maraschino cherries
(about one 16-oz. jar)
- Confectioners' sugar for finishing

Drain Maraschino cherries thoroughly on paper towels and set aside. Put butter and 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar in a large mixing bowl. Beat with an electric mixer on medium speed three to four minutes, or until well mixed. Stir in vanilla. Add flour, oats and salt; mix well. Stir in pecans.

Shape about 2 teaspoons dough around each cherry. Place on an ungreased cookie sheet about one inch apart. Bake in a preheated 350F. oven for 12 to 15 minutes, or until set but not brown. Roll in confectioners' sugar while still warm. Cool.

For a fun presentation, use cherries with stems. Remove stems, bake as directed and then insert stems in cookies while they are still warm but after rolling in sugar. Makes 4 dozen.

A New Explanation For “Brittle Bone” And Connective Tissue Disease

Baylor College of Medicine

HOUSTON -- Mutations in a previously unstudied gene key to the proper formation of the structure of collagen can cause osteogenesis imperfecta, or brittle bone disease, in both mice and man, said researchers from Baylor College of Medicine and a group of international collaborators in a report that appears in the journal Cell today.

Changes in genes that serve the same purpose for different forms of collagen may also be at the root of other connective tissue diseases, said the report’s senior author, Dr. Brendan Lee, associate professor of molecular and human genetics at BCM, director of the Skeletal Dysplasia Clinic at Texas Children’s Hospital and a Howard Hughes Medical Institute investigator.

“This is truly a novel molecular or biochemical mechanism that causes human connective tissue disease,” said Lee.

Mutations in CRTAP (cartilage-associated protein) reduce or prevent chemical modification of a particular protein that helps to chaperone collagen as it assumes its proper structure. That particular modification, which involves attaching a hydroxy (OH) molecule onto the protein, is a process called prolyl 3-hydroxylation.

Mice that were bred to lack CRTAP have severe osteoporosis and low bone mass – the mouse equivalent of osteogenesis imperfecta. What makes this finding interesting, said Lee, is that it can cause a whole spectrum of brittle bone disease in humans from lethal to mild forms, depending on the effect of the mutation. When the mutation eliminates the protein associated with the gene, a severe, lethal form of osteogenesis imperfecta results. Other mutations can result in less of the protein and are associated with a milder form of the disease.

More broadly, this finding lends itself to the hypothesis that mutations in similar genes might cause problems resulting in diseases related to defects in other types of collagen. Collagen is the most common protein in the human body, and the four most common types are found in different types of tissues including bone, cartilage, blood vessels, and kidney.

“A logical extension of this research might be that we would find mutations in related genes affecting these other types of connective tissues,” Lee said.

More specifically, the finding explains a mystery surrounding osteogenesis imperfecta. Previously, the only gene mutation known to cause the disease was dominantly inherited. That means if a person has the mutated gene, he or she has the disease. This means that the mutation causing the disease in the first person in a family is spontaneous and not inherited from a parent.

However, in some families, more than one child has the disease, indicating it is inherited. This new mechanism for the disease is genetically recessive, with each parent having one mutated gene and one normal gene. They then have a one in four chance of having a child with osteogenesis imperfect with each pregnancy.

"This proves a new inheritance pattern for OI and a new mechanism for bone disease," said Lee.

Current studies are aimed at answering whether this problem with prolyl-3-hydroxylation is involved in other connective tissue diseases.

Others who participated in the research include: Drs. Roy Morello, Terry Bertin, Yuqing Chen and John Hicks of Baylor College of Medicine; Laura Tonachini, Massimiliano Monticone and Patrizio Castagnola of the Istituto Nazionale per la Ricerca sul Cancro in Genova, Italy; Frank Rauch and Francis H. Glorieux of Shriners Hospital for Children, and McGill University, Montreal, Canada; Janice Vranka and Hans of Peter Bachinger of Shriners Hospital for Children in Portland, Oregon, and the Oregon Health & Science University; James M. Pace, Ulrike Schwarze, Peter H. Byers, MaryAnn Weis and Russell J. Fernandes of the University of Washington in Seattle; and David R. Eyre, Zhenqiang Yao and Brendan F. Boyce of the University of Rochester Medical Center in New York.

Funding for the research came from the National Institutes of Health, the Baylor College of Medicine Mental Retardation Developmental Disabilities Research Center and the Shriners of North America.

Perfect Pear: Simply Delicious Meals In A Snap

(NAPSA)-The hubbub of the holidays shouldn't mean taking a break from healthful eating. Fortunately, no matter how hectic your schedule becomes, there's always time for working some delicious fruit into your diet.

Pears can be a great place to start. Besides being delicious, they're wonderfully nutritious-an excellent source of dietary fiber that contains vitamin C and is also a source of potassium, with only about 100 calories per serving.

Pears are great anytime of the day: Try pear halves with yogurt for breakfast. Pack one with your lunch. Cut one up over a dinner salad. Or top a dish of ice cream for dessert. In addition, there are many varieties to enjoy throughout the year: Bartlett, Anjou, Bosc and Comice. Each has a distinct texture, color and flavor that can be made into savory snacks, main dishes, appetizers, salads and desserts.

And remember: Adding pears to a main dish

gives food a burst of flavor while helping your family get the recommended five to nine daily servings of fruits and veggies.

The following quick-and-easy recipe does not use a traditional sauce, letting the juicy pears bring a sweet balance to the Parmesan and prosciutto's more salty flavors. Using a prepared pizza crust makes this an effortless meal or a beautiful and savory appetizer.

Savory Pear Pizza

- 1 prepared pizza dough crust (such as Boboli)
- 3 T. extra virgin olive oil
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 oz. grated, fresh Parmesan cheese
- 3 oz. chopped prosciutto or thinly sliced cured ham
- 1 red Anjou pear, cored and sliced very thinly

1. Preheat oven to 450F.
2. Place pizza crust on baking sheet.
3. Spread olive oil and garlic over the pizza crust.
4. Top with cheese, prosciutto and pear slices.
5. Bake for 12-15 minutes or until cheese is melted and bubbly.
6. Slice and serve. Serves 6.
