Smart Financial Moves for New Parents

If you've just had a new baby, your life is filled with more joy (but less sleep). You're probably already aware of the time and effort you must invest in raising your child, but you may not have thought as much about another aspect — the financial one.

Consider this: The average cost of raising a child to age 17 is now $222,360, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture report on how much middle-income, two-parent families spend on their offspring. And this is the amount you might spend before your son or daughter heads to college. Clearly, you need to start making the financial moves necessary to take your child from diapers to a degree. Here are some suggestions for doing just that:

- Purchase sufficient life insurance. When it was just you and your spouse, it was a good idea for you to have life insurance — but now that you have a child, it's an absolute necessity. If you have any doubts about the value of life insurance, just look again at that $222,360 figure above, and then tack on the costs of four years of college. If you or your spouse were to die unexpectedly, would the survivor earn enough to raise and educate your child? In this day and age, that isn't likely. So make sure that you have adequate life insurance in place.
- Prepare a will. Obviously, you hope to enjoy a long life — one in which you see your child grow to adulthood. But none of us can predict the future, so it's essential that you draw up a will to provide for the care of your child, both financially and physically. When you create a will, you can name a guardian to step in and take care of your child, if necessary, and you can make sure your child receives your financial assets. However, many people go beyond writing a will and establish a living trust, which gives them more control over how and when they want their assets distributed. Your legal advisor can help you prepare a will and determine if a living trust is appropriate for your needs.

- Maintain adequate cash. To help pay for all those expenses related to child rearing, keep enough cash on hand. By having enough resources available in liquid accounts, you can avoid having to dip into your long-term investments to pay for short-term needs.
- Save early and often for college. It's never too soon to start saving for the high costs of higher education. A 529 plan is a tax-advantaged vehicle and may be a great option for your college savings. Contributions to a 529 plan are made with after-tax dollars, and have the opportunity to grow tax-free. Withdrawals used for qualified higher education expenses are also tax free. Furthermore, your 529 plan contributions may be eligible for a state tax deduction or credit depending on the plan and state.
- Stay balanced. As we've seen, it takes a lot of money to raise a child. But even as you're meeting these expenses, think about your own future, particularly your retirement. Strive to strike a balance between the money you spend on your child and the amount you invest in your 401(k), IRA and other retirement-savings vehicles.

You can't put a price-tag on your child's future, but when it comes to taking care of that child, you'll want to know the costs involved — and be prepared for them.

Rosehill Christian School Participates in Operation Christmas Child

Elementary students in grades K through 5 from Rosehill Christian School participated in Operation Christmas Child and donated 199 shoeboxes of gifts to be shipped to the needy children of Haiti. Operation Christmas Child is a ministry of Samaritan's Purse, a Christian organization run by Franklin Graham, the son of Evangelist Billy Graham. Their goal is to provide spiritual and physical aid to hurting people throughout the world. Operation Christmas Child is a program that allows the community a tangible way to help the needy children around the world. The shoeboxes were filled with new toys, school supplies, candy and a personal note. Rosehill Christian School had a goal of 155 boxes, one for each student enrolled in elementary school at RCS. Through the generosity of the students and parents, that goal was surpassed by over 40 shoeboxes. "I am constantly reminded that no child is too small to do the work of the Lord!" stated fifth grade teacher, Christie Newell. Middle school English teacher, Katie Davila, and her husband, Noe, graciously loaded up all 199 shoeboxes and dropped them off at Lifeway – a drop site for Operation Christmas Child. Newell was very pleased with the response of the students and acknowledged that this service project was "a wonderful opportunity to teach our young kids how to reach out to kids their own age who get nothing for Christmas". Rosehill Christian School is located at 19830 FM 2920 in Tomball, Texas.
