- Operate only as a recommending body to the ESCA and the Board of Directors (NVRs are not involved in the management of the ESCA).

Our upcoming NVR election is right around the corner. Interested in getting involved in the community? Consider becoming an NVR! Watch for the nominations announcement coming next month.

Upcoming Kids Triathlon

On September 17, 2016, Eagle Springs will host our annual kids triathlon. This is our 6th year and we expect roughly 200 children to compete! Most of these are residents of our community – your neighbors and friends.

Our young Eagle Springs athletes will be competing to finish their swim, bike, and run event quickly. They will start at 8 am in the Athletic Club Pool. The celebration area (in the sports complex) will include inflatables, music, door prizes, and more. We will award the top children in each age group and you won't want to miss the excitement.

Come out and cheer on your child or a friend's! Join us in the sports complex or anywhere along Eagle Springs Parkway or near the pool for some of the excitement as Eagle Springs young residents showcase their athletic ability.

Volunteers are needed: If you can help with handing out packets the week before the event, early morning setup prior to the event, setting up the pool and transition area the day before, ensuring kids have their helmets on before their bike, helping direct children to stay on the route, helping children who need some extra encouragement, directing car traffic away from our children, ensuring safety of children on jump houses, helping tie shoes for youngest children, telling kids when it is their turn to start the swim, or helping collect timing chips at the finish line we need YOU! Email kidstri@insideeaglesprings.com if you can help.

Event Road and Amenity Closure

Crickets

Field crickets are a common sight around homes in late summer into autumn. These insects are about 1” long when fully grown. Crickets are dark brown to black with large hind legs used for jumping. They also have two cerci, or appendages that come off the tip of the abdomen. Female crickets have a large sword-like structure, the ovipositor, protruding from the tip of the abdomen. The ovipositor is used to deposit eggs into soil.

Crickets feed on plant material as well as other insects. They are able to cause damage to seedlings and sometimes large populations can be destructive. Large masses of dead crickets around doorways or other areas can be distasteful to view and cause a foul odor.

Field crickets are primarily outdoor insects, but may occasionally venture indoors. When crickets do come indoors, they may bother residents with their chirping. Males chirp to attract a mate creating the sound by rubbing their forewings together.

Cricket management is more easily accomplished in the summer when nymphs, who cannot fly, are present. Unfortunately, this usually isn't when large populations of crickets are discovered.

Before turning to pesticides to manage your cricket problems, try these ideas:

- Turn off outside lights at night or use bulbs that are less attractive to insects
- Seal cracks & crevices where insects can enter with sealant
- Remove debris stacked near the structure
- Keep lawn & surrounding areas mowed
- Stuff weep holes with copper mesh

STEAM Learning for Preschoolers

It's no secret that science, technology, engineering, arts and math (STEAM) are all important subjects in education, but what about in early education? While some of these topics may seem too complex for preschoolers to grasp, child care providers and parents can start laying the foundation for certain STEAM-related skills and concepts earlier than you may think. The key is introducing the right activities at the right time.

At Primrose School of Eagle Springs children learn and practice STEAM concepts—as well as concepts in language and literacy, social studies, music, physical development, character development and life skills—continuously throughout the day as part of the Primrose-exclusive approach called Balanced Learning[®]. While STEAM often provokes thoughts of science experiments, building blueprints or video games, for young children, STEAM looks more like the following:

- Science – Encouraging children to investigate and answer their own questions.
- Technology – Refers to using simple tools like crayons, rulers and magnifying glasses, as well as more complex ones like microscopes and computers.
- Engineering – Helping children recognize problems and test solutions to them.
- Arts – Fostering creativity and allowing children to illustrate concepts they are learning.
- Mathematics – Helping children explore numbers, but also patterns, shapes, organizational skills and much more.

There are many reasons to teach STEAM in preschool. STEAM skills are transferable across other subjects. Process skills, which include making observations, hypothesizing and critical thinking, are key components of STEAM. These skills help young children grasp math and science concepts early in life, but can also be applied to other subjects and more complex concepts later on. It's also essential to engage children in STEAM subjects early on since they are becoming increasingly important in today's world.

Incorporating STEAM learning into daily classroom activities, rather than using a kit or focusing on it during certain times of day, allows children to better connect with these concepts. The Primrose Balanced Learning approach is integrated, meaning every skill and concept taught is reinforced through a variety of different activities and guidance from teachers. For example, plants may be explored through free play, books, art, discussion and more, while Primrose teachers ask probing questions and share information along the way to guide and extend children's thinking. This ensures each child has many opportunities to connect with the subject matter regardless of how he or she learns.

The Primrose Balanced Learning approach is guided by the latest research and established early education philosophies to ensure the best possible learning environment for children. Children are introduced to new skills and concepts when they are developmentally ready, which helps learning come more naturally. Each theme is also explored for a week or more so that children can learn at their own pace.

Whether Primrose children are investigating STEAM subjects, exercising language skills or learning about honesty, every Balanced Learning lesson is wrapped in fun, meaningful experiences designed to help all children reach their full potential.

TENNIS TIPS

By USPTA/PTR Master Professional - Owner, Manager and Director of Tennis

How to execute The Backhand Service Return

In previous newsletters, I offered tips on how to hit a forehand groundstroke, a two-handed backhand, one-handed backhand, forehand volley, the two handed backhand volley, the serve, the forehand half-volley, the one-handed backhand volley, the overhead “smash” and the forehand service return.

In this issue, I will offer you instructions on how to execute the second most important shot in the game of tennis: The Service Return, since it is the response to the first most important shot of the game: The Serve. In the illustrations, Susan Herb, player at the Grey Rock Tennis Club, shows the proper technique to execute this stroke.

Step 1: The Ready Position: When Susan is getting ready to return the serve, her eyes are focused on the tennis ball held by the opponent. Knees are relaxed and the hands are holding the racket with a relaxed grip.

Step 2: The Back Swing: Once Susan realizes that the ball has been directed to her forehand, she will turn her upper body and will take the racket back. Notice that the left hand is up in front to allow her to keep her center of gravity in the center. She has loaded her weight on her left foot and will be ready to step forward to meet the ball.

Step 3: The Point of Contact: Susan now is ready to step into the ball. She has kept her eye on the ball and her center of gravity now is shifted to the point of contact. Notice the right knee being slightly bent and the right foot is pointing to the ball meeting the racket.

Step 5: The Follow Through: Once Susan has finished her stroke, the momentum of the racket continues to move almost to a point behind her neck. Her left hand is next to her body and her left elbow is pointing toward her target. Her body is now ready to take the “split step” with both feet in order to prepare for the opponent’s returned shot.
